Glades Livestock Market Among Tops In The S. E. And Largest In Florida

Three Years Constant Growth
Topped By Last Eight Weeks Activity

With a two months sustained average of more than 1000 head per week, totalling $255, and a three year record of each month or period exceeding that corresponding month or period for the previous year, the Glades Livestock Market has no contender for "first" in Florida, and one (possibly two) in the Southeast for the same record.

During the bowling of fast dropping prices of beef the local market has continued to increase its weekly sales, with a strong to strengthening market. There has been a consistent two to four cents margin between the average price of the week and that of grass fat steers. The heart of the cattle industry, financially—a 15 to 20% margin between the purchase price and the selling price—has persisted since the readjustment period in cow prices began. Some fifty to sixty buyers is the rule now-days with the four corners of the Florida market. Buyers from Jacksonville as a regular program, buyers from Ocala, and packers from Tampa looking for supplies with Miami generously represented, has maintained a supply of buyers with orders in their pockets and money in the bank, ready to be spent.

In recent months near an average of 70% for slaughter has been evidenced. A Miami packer who buys regularly at the local market entertained his customers and friends at a barbecue Sunday afternoon, when the prize meat displayed and fed to the visitors was: (1) On the hoof, steers from Stein's Ranch; (2) Hanging in the cooler, good to prime carcasses, steers from Stein's Ranch; (3) Barbecue, "the finest ever," steers from Stein's Ranch. "Western meat" dearly beloved by all because the meat salesman found that into the storekeeper as well as the user is still "western meat" west of Twenty-Mile-Bend.

Paris is not the only place in the world where the "feminine figure" can be made to look like the original of federal grades of good and prime in a porterhouse or T-bone west of the Appalachians, or even the Suwannee, nor the Kissimmee.

Opened on May 12th of '50, with faith, enthusiasm, and a few pens as physical assets, in an area just recently converted to beef production, the Glades Livestock Market sold 9,763 head of animals during that year. In '51 13,740 were sold as "western meat" crossed into the cattle business for recreational and tax purposes.

In 1952 some 23,230 head were

Veterinary Public Health Growing In Importance To Florida Says Our County Veterinarian Dr. D. L. Lichty

"The importance of veterinary public health is indicated in the fact that during 1950 the State of Ohio suffered a loss of $77,000,000 from disease among its livestock," Dr. Wright L. Lichty told Rotarians Friday.

This, coupled with the fact that only $1,000,000 is spent annually in the U. S. in veterinary research," continued the doctor.

Celery Brings $4 Promises Good Until Late June

The roasting ear crop—sweet corn to maturity about ended for the 1953 spring season, and is going out with a bang after a spotted market throughout the current season.

Celery will be harvested in the Glades thru June, and according to advices will still bring good prices up to the end of the local harvest. A number of farmers who had giving financial holes as result of the year's work are rapidly filling them with the celery checks.

Except for the canning plant, the season is being wound up, plans for another year are in the making.

"TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY"

By Russell Kay

A good many years ago when I was a barefoot boy with check, etc. I used to get a thrill out of watching the neighbors furrow their brows, and no matter how fast the grass grew it wasn't fast enough to suit me. Like most youngsters of my day I had to depend upon my own efforts for such spending money as I acquired and mowing lawns was my major occupation. Being a saved-off individual, about the only thing I was ever able to push around with any degree of success was a lawn mower.

I used to knock down a dollar or so to a given green grass a hair cut after school and on Saturdays and was the proud possessor of one of the first half-bearing lawn mowers ever produced, which I bought out of my earnings. My father was a frugal man and, while he had no objection to my going in business for myself, he figured it was up to me to provide my own working tools.

As I grew older and more sideways than up and down, the business of mowing lawns steadily lost its appeal. As a youngster, I used to wonder why anyone was dumb enough to pay someone else to mow a lawn when he could do it himself and save from 50c to $1.00, but as the years slipped me of that early vim and vitality and the value of the dollar steadily decreased, I learned the hard way.

A few years ago some chap with a weak back or something came up with the power lawn mower. Then the country broke out in a rash of "em until today it is as hard to find a guy without one as it is to find a family without a radio. With modern day kids very indifferent to the business of lawn-mowing as a profession and with so-called yard men almost as hard to get along with as they are to pay, I invested in one of those beautiful little green and white trinkets, and while the growth of grass is still annoying I find I can guide this mechanical mow around without too much discomfort.

But mowing a lawn is only half the problem. At best, the finest mechanical lawn mower can't do any more than "take a little off the top." In order to finish the job and make a lawn look half way respectable you have to trim the edges and around the trees and flower beds. This has gripped me not for I don't like squatting down with a pair of clippers or wrestling with an edger. Evidently some chemist in the laboratories of the United States Rubber Company acquired the same aversion to edging lawns that I've had for so many years.

A package, which sells for $1.00, when mixed with water and sprayed along the edges of your lawn and around trees and shrubs where it is always difficult to keep grass neatly trimmed, will end your edging problem for the rest of the summer. You simply leave the chemical on the edges for five days, then it will cease growing, eliminating the need for the balance of the summer, although the edges will remain thick and green.

Each $1.00 package provides enough "No-Trim" or "M40" to strip 250 feet in length and six inches in width. I don't know who the chemist was at the retail store who discovered this amazing formula, or if you ask me he sure ought to get a medal or citation, but for he has certainly made a wonderful contribution to suffering humanity. He will probably go down in history as doing as much to bring relief to suffering males as Lydia Pinkham for members of the opposite sex.

"No-Trim" will soon be available at your local garden supply store. The National Products Company of Orlando is the distributor for Florida and is prepared to supply jobbers and dealers throughout the state. Now with my mechanical mow and my chemical trimmer I can thumb my nose at the yard man and still keep my yard trim and pretty. Any science gladder?

with
Mac White

I was on a peddle run the other day that took me from Jacksonville to my terminal at Jacksonville. I had to make some truck detours over roads that I'm ashamed to admit exist in Florida. "It's a darned shame," I told my wife, "when I got home, that the money Florida's motorists and the trucking industry pay out in taxes isn't invested in more and better roads."

"Take it easy," Mary said. "That's all right, not a politician." "That I know," I said. "But did you ever stop to think that taxes levied on motor vehicles in Florida during 1952 totaled nearly $26,000,000. The trucking industry alone paid nearly $7,000,000 just for registration fees and license tags. Yet of that nearly $26,000,000, only about $400,000 was earmarked for public roads."

"Watch your blood pressure," Mary said. "Twenty-four of our 48 states have anti-tax-diversion constitutional amendments," I said. "Eight other states are preparing to pass such amendments. But not Florida. It just won't make it."

"Shall I get you a soap box, Mary?" "Nope," I said. "Just remember those figures - nearly $26,000,000 collected in 1952 from Florida's car and truck owners and only $400,000 earmarked for public roads. It's a mighty sorry situation."

By Malcolm Millar

Hello everybody! Rosalind Russell not only likes to laugh but she likes to hear others laugh. Although she has established herself as one of the screen's better dramatic actresses and was nominated for the Academy Award for a serious portrayal she is most happy in comedy. She is a very adaptable person and is as friendly and at ease with the labor crew on a set as with the social set at a Washington soiree. She attended social affairs frequently during the war when her producer-husband, Frederick Brisson, was a Lieutenant-Colonel on General Hap Arnold's staff. She has very little sympathy for people who moan around, and she believes that no one is given a burden that is actually too heavy for them to carry if they will only do something about it. Stop letting your problems rule you and try to rule them instead," she says. Despite her numerous "Career Women" portrayals and her position on the lists of Ten Best Dressed American Women, she likes outdoor sports and is a better-than-average golfer, a good tennis player and a fine swimmer. As a child she played basketball, and in her teens was an instructor of horse back riding. She has a distinct "did" the two-story French provincial home in which she lives in Beverly Hills with her husband and nine-year-old son, Lance. She keeps informed on world affairs and discusses them intelligently. During World War II she was active on fifteen committees that were engaged in patriotic endeavors. Among her numerous welfare interests today is the Sister Kennedy Foundation, of which she is national women's chairman of the first raising branch. She likes to be up and doing and when not at work on a picture usually rides at seven am. She carries on a voluminous correspondence and devotes much of her spare time between scenes to letter writing. "See you at the movies. . . . Mal.

Reverend Buchmiller will accompany Mrs. Buchmiller and three other delegates from Florida. They will leave from Orlando June 8 and plan to return July 1.

ADVENTIST PASTOR ATTENDS CAMP MEET

Reverend F. D. Buchmiller, pastor of the Seventh Day Adventist Church, will be in charge of the young peoples division at the Annual Camp meeting of the Seventh Day Adventist which will be held in Orlando May 28 through June 27.

Mental and spiritual defense against all tyranny is the theme of services in all Christian Science churches next Sunday. Subject of the Lesson-Sermon is "ANCIENT AND MODERN NECROMANCY, ALIAS MESMERISM AND HYPNOTISM, DENOUNCED."

Veronica from Jonah (2:9) provide the Golden Text: "They that observe vain things forsake their own country." "Sal" will be old fashioned singing.

Passages from the King James Version of the Bible amplifying the subject include these from Proverbs (22:17-29): "Bow down thine ear, and hear the words of the wise, and apply thine heart unto my knowledge. . . . Seeest thou a man diligent in his business? he shall stand before kings; he shall not be removed."

Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include: "If mortals would keep proper ward over mortal mind, the brood of evils which infect it would be cleared out."

On Memorial Day, we will do well to take Three Lookings:

I. THE RETROSPECTIVE LOOK: It is a day of memories. A day in which we see again the bloody battlefields, seeing all that they imply. It is the day when we see the sacrifices of men who showed the greater love of "giving their life" for others; guarding our heritage of freedom.

II. THE INTROSPECTIVE LOOK: This is the look that we need because it demands of us the answer to life's searching questions which we often forget. The introspective look asks — have we appreciation of others' sacrifices? Are we guarding our heritage of freedom? Do we love the nation for which others died? Are we doing now that which will bless generations to come?

III. THE PROSPECTIVE LOOK: This is the look to the future in the light of the other two looks. May we look to the future remembering the words of the writer of Proverbs, "Righteousness Exalteth A Nation; But Sin Is A Reproach To Any People." Let us never forget the words of the Psalmist, "The Wicked Shall Be Turned Into Hell, And All The Nations That Forget God." Lastly may the words of the Apostle be the guide for the days ahead for this our nation, "For, Brethren, Ye Have Been Called Unto Liberty; Only Use Not Liberty For An Occasion To Flesh; But By Love Serve One Another."

Let us shall not fear Thee, O Lord, and glorify Thy name; for they are all vanity, and there are none who shall make war with thee, and there are none who shall contend with thee. We face great dangers, but we are in the hands of the Lord and have faith and strength to overcome the forces of evil cannot overcome us.

Plans were made to have a picnic supper at the city park before the church service on June 14.

Lord, make me an instrument of Thy peace. Where there is hatred, let me sow love; Where there is injury, pardon; Where there is doubt, faith; Where there is despair, hope; Where there is darkness, light; Where there is sadness, joy. O Divine Master, grant that I may not so much seek to be consoled as to console; to be understood as to understand; to be loved as to love.

For it is in giving that we receive. It is in pardoning that we are pardoned. And it is in dying that we are born to Eternal Life. — St. Francis of Assisi.

Today I will be grateful. Today I will be considerate. Today I will be humble. Today I will be unselfish. Today I will be true to God. Affirm these statements at frequent intervals. — Greenville Kleiser.

LESSON TOPIC — "The Way of Christian Love" SCRIPTURE LESSON — I Corinthians 13

Introduction: In today's lesson Paul reaches the climax of his letter to the Corinthians and gives to us in this "Love Hymn" the ultimate in Christian experience.

I. Life without Love is barren and futile — I Cor. 13:1-3. II. The Description of Love — I Cor. 13:4-7. III. Love Never Fails — I Cor. 13:8-13.

Conclusion: Love the greatest thing in the world. "Now abideth Faith, Hope, Love, these three; but the greatest of these is Love. In these words of Paul, "make Love your aim." — I Cor. 14:1.

A Memorial Day Meditation

By Robert Ford, pastor

Everglades Presbyterian Church

On Memorial Day, we will do well to take Three Lookings:

I. THE RETROSPECTIVE LOOK: It is a day of memories. A day in which we see again the bloody battlefields, seeing all that they imply. It is the day when we see the sacrifices of men who showed the greater love of "giving their life" for others; guarding our heritage of freedom.

II. THE INTROSPECTIVE LOOK: This is the look that we need because it demands of us the answer to life's searching questions which we often forget. The introspective look asks — have we appreciation of others' sacrifices? Are we guarding our heritage of freedom? Do we love the nation for which others died? Are we doing now that which will bless generations to come?

III. THE PROSPECTIVE LOOK: This is the look to the future in the light of the other two looks. May we look to the future remembering the words of the writer of Proverbs, "Righteousness Exalteth A Nation; But Sin Is A Reproach To Any People." Let us never forget the words of the Psalmist, "The Wicked Shall Be Turned Into Hell, And All The Nations That Forget God." Lastly may the words of the Apostle be the guide for the days ahead for this our nation, "For, Brethren, Ye Have Been Called Unto Liberty; Only Use Not Liberty For An Occasion To Flesh; But By Love Serve One Another."

Let us shall not fear Thee, O Lord, and glorify Thy name; for they are all vanity, and there are none who shall make war with thee, and there are none who shall contend with thee. We face great dangers, but we are in the hands of the Lord and have faith and strength to overcome the forces of evil cannot overcome us.

Plans were made to have a picnic supper at the city park before the church service on June 14.

Baptists To Honor New Preacher At A Formal Reception

To officially and formally welcome the new pastor, the members of the First Baptist Church will have open house and a formal reception in the new Educational Building at eight o'clock Tuesday night, June 8th.

Mr. U. W. Malcolm, and family are southerners, having been born, educated and followed the profession in southern states, and now have a cosmopolitan congregation.

By education inclination and previous practice of his profession, Mr. Malcolm and his family come to Belle Glade eminently qualified to become an integral part of this growing community.

The Baptists are presenting him to the public and officially to his own congregation and invite the public to join in the welcome.

THE BELLE GLADE HERALD

through February '53 was submitted recently to members of the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission by John F. Dequaine, Chief Fisheries Biologist of the Agency.

The report contains a summary of the activities of the program, statistics of the fish catch by sport and commercial fishermen, economics of seining, several tentative conclusions reached from data gathered and some recommendations for future management of the bodies of water under the program.

Assisting Dequaine in the compilation of the report were Barry O. Freeman, William M. McLane, Jack A. DeFane, and E. T. Heinen, fish management supervisors of Lakes Harris, Eustis, George, Crescent, Okechobee and Reedy. All biologists concerned in the report. Following is a short breakdown on the report:

As outlined, the major objectives of the controlled seining program are to determine whether bass populations and sportmen's catch can be increased by reducing adult pan and rough fish, to increase growth rates of fish, to obtain biological information leading to improved sport fishing, and to permit the harvest of an annual crop of food fish, without detriment to sport fishing.

A total of 3,093,968 pounds of fish were taken by the seines. Over one million pounds of bass and pickerel were returned alive, while approximately 3.4 million pounds of panfish, 900,000 pounds of catfish, and more than 3 million pounds of "rough" fish were removed from the six lakes. Almost 185,000 pounds of turtles were also netted.

Bass and crappie fishing showed improvement in all lakes where "statistically valid" records of sport fishing catches were obtained during the period of seining. Bream fishing success varied in the different lakes, but, in no lake did it decline. The report refrains from stating categorically that seining was responsible for the improved sport fishing, although Dequaine has said that the first year's work looks "encouraging" and insists that at least two more years are necessary to evaluate the program.

The total catch by sportmen in Lake Eustis was calculated at 10,081 pounds of bass, 27,674 pounds of crappie, and 6,146 pounds of bream for an 11 month period. Eleven months fishing in Lake Eustis yielded a calculated 39,985 pounds of bass, 76,890 pounds of crappie, and 20,733 pounds of bream. The total catch from Lake George was calculated at 5,543 pounds of bass, 48 pounds of crappie, and 1,495 pounds of bream from December through February. Sport fishermen in Lakes Eustis and Harris caught one-sixth more pounds of crappie than were caught in the seines in the eleven month period.

In general, fish population studies showed an increase in the abundance and status of bass in all lakes except Okechobee, where bass stocks followed seasonal trends noticed in that lake during previous surveys. Adult crappie were most abundant in the early winter, while adult bream were most plentiful during the spring and summer season.

Bluegills in Lake Reedy showed as much as 75 percent gain in weight during nine months of seining, a fact which the biologist feels may be due to the increase in the food supply brought about by thinning out competing fish. The most important rough fish—gizzard shad—were reduced in Lakes Harris and Eustis over the same period the previous year, and were not found abundant in Lakes Crescent, George, and Reedy.

Other investigations were conducted concerning the food preferences, age and growth rates, reproduction, movement, and other habits of fish. Gizzard shad were taken by bluegill, shiner, and crappie. Most pan fish netted were two or more years old. Reproduction and survival of bass appeared more successful in Lake Reedy in 1953 than it had been the previous spring.

Approximately 80 percent of the tagged bass were taken by hook and line on seines within a five mile radius of the location of release. Sport fishermen recaptured 4 percent of the bass tagged in Lake Eustis, 0.5 percent in Lake George, 7.8 percent in Lake Harris and 1.3 percent in Lake Reedy. Studies of the small fish used as bass food are also underway. Experimental "brush piles" in Lakes Eustis and Harris had not proven successful in improving fishing for panfish.

The report also gives some detailed statistics on the economics of the commercial catches. The wholesale value of all fish—excluding the controlled seining program is accounted for $1,183,498.58. Panfish accounted for $899,168.68 of this total, while catfish and mullet were valued at $189,531.93. Other fish and turtles sold were worth $188,771.73. Five hundred and twelve persons were employed by the fishing industry in connection with the program, while sixty-six individual state employees were used full and part time.

The costs of supervising and conducting the program amounted to $134,910.07 to the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission. Poundage fees collected from the commercial fishermen by the Commission were $194,149.30, giving the agency a profit of $69,239.27 through the end of February.

The report concluded that no increase in the amount of fish taken from the experimental lakes by sport or commercial fishermen was evident, that the abundance and catch of bass had generally improved, that further time was needed to determine whether a substantial decrease in rough fish would occur, and that the program was economically beneficial to the State. It also recognized that "opposition to the method by certain groups," who feel it should be a State enterprise.

It includes recommendations for the continuation of the experimental program, for more effort to inform the people of the state about it, for additional research on the catch of sport fishermen in comparable areas where there is no seining and for more effort to find an economical use for "millions of pounds of rough fish."

Copies of the complete 31-page report are available from the Tallahassee office of the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission.

WASHINGTON NEWS LETTER
From WASHINGTON, D.C.
WASHINGTON — Although there have been efforts to railroad it through the Congress, a bill to bring into the Union additional states is being given a quiet and startled—second look by the Senate Committee of which I am a member.

Statehood, with all it implies is most appealing. We can agree that self-government is a part of the American way of life, and that equal rights are due all citizens, regardless of where they live.

But the step of creating states out of territories far removed from our shores populated by people with different national background, with characteristics and traditions dissimilar to ours, is a serious one. Once taken, this step can never be retraced. Once created, a state belongs to the Union and the Union belongs to it. If it is a mistake, we cannot make it.

For these, and many other reasons, I am greatly encouraged by our decision in the Interior and Insular Affairs Committee to hold hearings on the Hawaii and Alaska statehood bills. It could be that, after all the facts are developed, the Congress will decide that it will be better to make Hawaii a county of Washington state.

Neuroses Off the Cuff — By making quick flights, I have spent five of the past six weeks visiting and speaking in Florida and am cheerful to learn everywhere that my book is high. Several months ago I was severely benefited because a newspaperman with whom I had talked quipped me as saying a majority of Floridians came to our state from other parts of the country. The Census Bureau reported officially the other day that 1,589,205 of our population were natives born (I guess the important fact is that they are getting a genuine welcome and are staying). I am proud of the results finally brought about by the fight I started several months ago to break the logjam in the Federal Communications Commission which has been depriving 80 percent of the people of the United States of television service.

The Senate to provide additional hearing examiners, FCC now can clear its backlog in other year (previously it was estimated 5 years would be required) and I expect the FCC to change its system of priorities to bring up immediately cases from such cities as Miami, Jacksonville, Orlando, St. Louis, Pittsburgh and Denver.

VETERANS INFORMATION AND SERVICE

By Melvina T. Dixon
State Service Officer
PUBLIC LAW 16 TRAINING FOR DISABLED VETERANS. Now, disabled Korean veterans, as well as WW II veterans, are entitled to education and training under Public Law 16. Eligibility requirements are: (1) active service on or after September 16, 1940, and prior to July 25, 1947; (2) WW II veterans, and on or after June 7, 1950 for Korean veterans; (3) Discharge or release from service under conditions other than dishonorable; (4) Compensable (minimum 10%) or receipt of disability retirement pay for a condition which was incurred in, or aggravated by active service. (4) Need for vocational rehabilitation to restore loss of earning power resulting from the service-connected disability. The education or training includes college, on the job training, on the farm training, or trade schools.

A course of training or education may not exceed a four-year maximum, however, the length of the course depends upon the amount of education or training necessary to rehabilitate the veteran — his length of active service in the armed forces is not a factor in computing the amount of training. Expenses for the training are paid for by the VA. This includes tuition, books, supplies, equipment and other necessary incidentals.

Subsistence allowance is provided during the period of training and for two months thereafter, in addition to compensation for disabled veterans. Veterans with less than 30% disability, if single, will receive $105, if married $115. Veterans with 30% or more disability, if single, will receive $115, if married $135.

THE nearest we can come to word-picturing for you how it feels to drive a 1953 Buick with Twin-Turbine Dynaflo* is this:

When you toe the gas treadle, you can get away like silked lightning in a silent hurry.

More specifically, you can sweep your speedometer needle from zero to a legal 30 mph. in time you normally take two breaths.

Equally important, you get this dazzling getaway with whisper quiet — and with one smooth, progressive build-up of velvety power.

The literal truth is — no other car in all the world can get away with the combined quickness, quiet and after smoothness of a 1953 Buick with TT Dynaflo.

It takes more than the advanced new engineering of this fully automatic transmission to produce such thrilling performance, of course.

It takes power, too.

And that's here in full measure — the highest horsepower and compression ratios, Series for Series, in Buick's fifty great years — with the world's most advanced V8 engine powering the SUPER and ROADMASTER.

There's a lot more you get in any 1953 Buick in generous and hard-to-match measure — room, comfort, ride steadiness, visibility — and, above all, value. But these are things you must discover for yourself — as you must the greatest Buick performance in history. Why not drop in on us real soon? We'll be happy to put you at the wheel of a new Buick and let our points prove themselves.

MARINES HAVE THE SITUATION IN HAND

With the First Marine Aircraft Wing in Korea — Stopping a ten-ton object traveling 160 miles per hour takes plenty of "know-how."

The problem of how to stop a crippled jet aircraft on only a mile- and-a-half landing strip was recently solved with "home-made" equipment at a forward air base here.

If a plane can't be stopped short of the end of the runway it means almost certain loss of the plane and perhaps a pilot. So, when a jet has its brakes or flaps shot away on a strike against the Communists in North Korea, the crash crew from Marine Aircraft Group 33, crippled "Skyraider" was hauled to its six tons of special gear ready.

The arresting gear consists of a wire stretched across the runway with 500 feet of salvaged anchor chain attached to both ends. A jet hitting the device at 160 miles per hour can be brought to a stop in about 2,500 feet, with no damage to the plane.

The pilot of the disabled plane contributes to the stop by dropping the tail hook normally used for landing on aircraft carriers. The hook catches the wire and is stopped. All Marine planes are equipped for carrier operation.

Recently the device was credited with saving its first propeller driven plane when a crippled "Skyraider" was hauled to a stop in 1000 feet.

THE CHILDREN'S HOME SOCIETY OF FLORIDA, Jacksonville, Florida

Religious training is one of the most important projects on the program of The Children's Home Society of Florida. All of the children cared for by the Society attend Sunday School and Church regularly, and have religious training in the Society's four receiving homes. In selecting permanent adoptive homes for them, great care is exercised by the experienced casework staff to choose only homes where religion is a vital part of daily living.

The Society is expanding every year and contributions are urgently needed. Donations of food and clothing also are solicited and all such contributions should be forwarded to 1649 Osceola Street, Jacksonville 4, Florida.

RED MOUNTS OFFICE GOING TO COUNTRY

The Palm Beach County Commission at its meeting June 8, will consider land sites for location of a suburban headquarters for the county Agricultural Department.

The board this week reviewed plans for moving the office of County Agent M. U. Mounts out of the court house and into a spot where this agency would be more accessible to the people it serves.

Submitted this week, was a proposed location — a 10 acre tract one half mile north of Four Points on Military Trail which Mounts said would be satisfactory. The county agent said he had discussed moving the headquarters with farmers in the county and that none of them objected to the Military Trail location.

However, the commission voted to wait another two weeks before taking any final action and in the meantime the board asked that anyone with property for sale along Military Trail or State Road 80 that would be suitable for the headquarters, etc., submit their proposals as soon as possible. The board also voted to have the north Military Trail property appraised.

CINAMATIC CHATTER

By Malcolm Millar

Helps everybody. A mid-day auto ride down New York's Broadway provided Rosemary Clooney with her "thrill of a life time." It happened a few years ago, six weeks after the honey-voiced blonde singer recorded the famous ditty, "Come On-A My House." Now one of Hollywood's brightest stars, Rosemary never tires of recalling it. Right after the recording sessions, Rosemary left New York to fill an engagement in Miami. "Come On-A My House" was a song she recorded under protest, relucant at last only because of the vociferous arguments and tricky lyrics concocted by William Saroyan and Ross Bagdasarian. While working in the Miami night-club, she all but forgot the song. But when the recording, Rosemary returned to New York the day "Come On-A My House" was released to the record shops. There wasn't any ticker tape or crowds lining the curbs, but I felt as though I was receiving a hero's welcome. Every record shop I passed had a loudspeaker rigged up above the street and each one was blaring "Come On-A My House." I heard my voice over and over again every block I travelled. If I had been travelling in a convertible, I'd have put the top down and sat on the juvenile a competent driver before he goes on the highway. Transfer of publication of Man and the Motor Car was announced by the parent group through the Department of Public Safety. Director H. N. Kirkman said Prentice Hall will continue publication of the original book and supplement it with five other special features in drive training. Those will include driver education manuals for administrators, class room instruction, practice driving, construction and use of driver testing devices and standard test in driver education.
